ACACIA TECHNOLOGIES LICENSES DIGITAL MEDIA TRANSMISSION TECHNOLOGY TO T. ROWE PRICE

Newport Beach, Calif. – (BUSINESS WIRE) April 12, 2004 – Acacia Research Corporation (Nasdaq: ACTG; CBMX) announced today that its Acacia Technologies group has entered into a License Agreement for its Digital Media Transmission (“DMT”) technology with T. Rowe Price.

The license to T. Rowe Price is Acacia’s first licensing agreement for the use of its DMT technology for video-on-demand on corporate websites. Corporations are increasing the use of video on their websites for product commercials and demonstrations, and archived corporate events.

Acacia has now entered into 120 license agreements for its DMT technology for hotel in-room entertainment, e-learning, online music, movie, sports, news, information, adult entertainment, and corporate advertising and promotion.

ABOUT ACACIA RESEARCH CORPORATION

Acacia Research Corporation comprises two operating groups, Acacia Technologies Group and CombiMatrix Group.

The Acacia Technologies Group develops, acquires, and licenses patented technologies. Acacia’s DMT technology, which is supported by 5 U.S. and 31 foreign patents, relates to audio and audio/video transmission and receiving systems commonly known as audio-on-demand, video-on-demand, and audio/video streaming, and is used for distributing digital content via several means including Internet, cable, satellite and wireless systems.

The CombiMatrix Group is developing a platform technology to rapidly produce customizable active biochips, which are semiconductor-based tools for use in identifying and determining the roles of genes, gene mutations and proteins. CombiMatrix’s technology has a wide range of applications including DNA synthesis/diagnostics, drug discovery, and immunochemical detection. CombiMatrix’s Express Track<sup>sm</sup> drug discovery program is a systems biology approach, using its technology, to target common viral diseases with siRNA compounds.

Acacia Research-Acacia Technologies (Nasdaq: ACTG) and Acacia Research-CombiMatrix (Nasdaq: CBMX) are both classes of common stock issued by Acacia Research Corporation and are intended to reflect the performance of the respective operating groups and are not issued by the operating groups.
